VOL. LX: No. 36. REDWOOD CITY, CALIFORNIA SATURDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1920 ESTABLISHED 1859

NOTED PERSONAGE LEAVES SCENES OF EARLY ACTIVITIES

P. H. McEvoy, whose stormy political career is a part of the history of the county, has taken up his residence in Oakland, having left San Mateo county after a residence of 68 years. It was with much difficulty he gathered sufficient courage to leave the scenes of his early activities and where his whole life had been spent. Mr. McEvoy will most likely spend the remainder of his years in Alameda county. He owns considerable property there and then, too, his daughter, Ethel ,is physical director in the Oakland school department.

He was accompanied by his wife, who was born and raised at the old town of Searsville, now only known in history. Her maiden name was Elizabeth A. Lloyd, her father was John Lloyd the village blacksmith of Searsville in the days of long ago.

Mr. McEvoy came to Redwod City from Australia with his parents in 1852. He was then a mere boy. He attended the first school opened in this city. His father, the late John McEvoy, was with General Fremont's expedition on its way up the coast from Monterey in 1854. The army of the famous general camped on the now Selby ranch at Atherton on the old El Camino Real. It was a singular coincidence that sixty-five years afterwards a big army camp should be located near this place for the government in establishing Camp Fremont at Menlo Park at the outbreak of the war had this expedition in mind and named the cantonment after the Path Finder.

The general was so enthusiastic about his new camp that he took an option on the ranch, then owned by Mexicans, but he never exercised the option. John McEvoy, however, bought an adjoining farm and after the expedition reached the Presidio he came back and improved it. The McEvoy ranch, near Redwood City, became famous for its large and rich crops of grain. It is now a portion of Redwood City, being cut up in town lots. It was on this ranch that P. H. McEvoy spent his early life.

Mr. McEvoy had a stormy political career in the county. In 1892 John Stafford was the supervisor from the third township. He was a leader in the Republican party. He had held the position for a long time. He had made enemies, but his position as leader was almost invulnerable. His associates on the board were the late W. H. Lewrence, at that time superintendent of the Spring Valley Water Company and Alfred Green, confidential adviser of the late D. O. Mills.

Stafford had a strong backing but his opponents wanted his place as supervisor and in looking around for a strong candidate selected P. H. McEvoy who had some years before moved to Menlo Park.

It was a strenuous campaign. Party lines were closely drawn in those days. Stafford was the Republican standard bearer while McEvoy represented the democratic party.

Perhaps never in the history of the county was there such a fierce campaign. It was a bitter one. McEvoy won by a few votes. The reception he received after the election at his home in Menlo Park is still fresh in the memory of all old-timers. The demonstration will long be remembered.

Jacob Bryan was made chairman of the new board and all went merrily as a marriage bell. However, McEvoy established many reforms and in so doing made numerous enemies and when his four year term expired they sought his defeat. Every effort was put forward to bring about his defeat at the election of 1896. Geo. W. Lovie, ex-assessor of the county, a stalwart Republican, was chosen to bear the brunt of battle. It was generally concede that Lovie was a sure winner. But when the smoke of battlte cleared it was seen that McEvoy had won by 28 votes. This was a great surprise and a sore disappointment to Lovie who as solace to his feelings was given the appointment of postmaster of Redwood City under the new McKinley administration. He held the place for ten years when he was succeeded by City Clerk W. A. Price. McEvoy's enemies kept right after him. They were bent in securing his political scalp. At the organization of the new board McEvoy was chosen chairman. He proved himself to be a good parliamentarian and a splendid chairman.

At the succeeding election McEvoy was defeated for the democratic nomination by Louis Frank, president of the Frank Tanning Company and a strong democratic leader. Ex-Sheriff Kinne was put up as the Republican candidate. McEvoy became an independent candidate. This was a battle royal. Owing to the vast influence of Frank it was thought by the wise ones that he had a walkover. In this three-cornered contest the Kinne vote was taken from Frank thus weakening his lines while the McEvoy vote stood like the rocks of Gibraltar. The outcome was that McEvoy was again elected by a small plurality. Thus he entered upon his twelfth year as supervisor. At the next election John MacBain of Menlo Park, a stalwart Republican and a man of large affairs, popular with all, was selected to make the run against the now almost unconquerable McEvoy.

This campaign has gone down in history of the third township as one of the most memorable in the annals of the township.

MacBain had a powerful organization. The Republican party was unit ed and party leaders went forth to battle sure of success. MacBain was selected by a big vote. MacBain strove hard to please his constituents and did make an enviable record, but he had some opponents who wanted his scalp. So at the election four years later they secured it. The doughty McEvoy appeared again on the political horizon and made another strong campaign, defeating MacBain by a very few votes. The political see-saw continued. MacBain appeared as a candidate at the next election as an opponent to the battle scarred veteran, McEvoy. MacBain had a strong organization, a good battle front that could not be broken. McEvoy went down to defeat never to rise again. He had lost his political strength. After sixteen years on the board and several terms acting as chairman he never could regain his lost ground. He made a feeble effort four years ago by having his name written in on the ballot but he only received a negligible vote. MacBain defeated Harry Hallet at the primary election that year.

Mr. MacBain was unopposed at the recent election. He made a splendid record both as a road builder and as chairman of the board. On the first of the year he will begin his fourth term as supervisor. He bids fair to hold the position as long as he wants it.

Mr. McEvoy's political sun has set for ever but the memories of his many political battles in San Mateo county may be a source of pleasure to him in his declining years removed from the scenes of his early triumphs

MacBain, triumphant, serenely and happy and high in the esteem of his constituents, looks forward to a successful administration, certain that he has the support of all.

FAITHFUL HOUND SAVES MASTER FROM ASSAULT

That L. Lombardt, San Bruno dairy man, is still able to chase milk and cream bottles up and down the street of that city every morning and evening is due to the fact that "Napoleon" his faithful shepherd, attacked and successfully repulsed a vicious highwayman last Sunday morning while Lombardi was rattling along the road near the Sixteen-Mile House.

Acording to the milkman, he was nearing the house of a customer and had just called to old Dobin, his steed, to slow down. While in the act of reaching back into the wagon for a bottle of milk he heard a gruff voice demand him to elevate his arms Taken completely by surprise Lombardi did not have time to obtain a small cannon he always keeps under the seat cushion. His only chance to turn the job over to "Napoleon." One word was sufficient. With hair bristling like a scared cat, "Nap" measured his distance and sprang from the wagon seat onto his master's assailant's shoulders. The weight of the dog carried the bandit into the dust of the road and a battle royal ensued. While dog and man rolled and tustled on the highway Lombardi secured his trusty weapon and stood by.

With the odds suddenly turned against him, the bandit made one supreme effort to free himself. This was accomplished by sacrificing a very important portion of his trousers but escape meant everything to him just then, and with a fiendish yell the intimidated highwayman made the road smoke as he tore madly out of sight.

Lombardi finished his milk deliveries, perhaps a little beh'nd schedule, but with great pride in his heart for "Napoleon," who sat beside him and chewed on a piece of serge with apparent satisfaction.

DEER HOUNDS ARE VALUED AT $150 EACH BY COURT

Superior Judge George H. Buck, Monday, awarded John Skrabo and Madeo Mangini $300 damages from George Flager and George L. England for the killing of the plaintiff's two deer hounds "Jim" and "Prince" near Skrabo's home on the Woodside road on August 29 last.

It is rumored around the court house that Judge Buck sought much expert advice as to the value of deer hounds before arriving at his decision, finally setting the value at $150 each.

England was arrested at the time of the killing and found guilty in the court of Justice of the Peace Ray Griffin, being fined $10 and sentenced to ten days in jail for the wanton killing, the jail sentence being suspended by the judge. Skrabo and Mangini then brought suit for damages in the superior court, the matter being submitted to Judge Buck with the result that they will now collect $300 for the loss of their dogs.

James T. O'Keefe represented the plaintiff while Albert Mansfield appeared for defendant.

TRIAL OF DOCTOR HICKOK IN PROGRESS AT COURT HOUSE

The trial of Doctor Galen M. Hickok in the superior court was continued late yesterday afternoon until this morning in order to permit the defense to present some records. The denfense will then rest its case. A verdict in the famous trial may be reached by noon today.

The trial begun on Wednesday before a jury, Judge Knight of Santa Cruz presiding. J. J. Greely and Kenneth M. Green appeared for the accused doctor and District Attorney Franklin Swart represented the people. He was assisted by Police Woman Kate O'Connor and Detective Sergeant Miles Jackson.

Dr. Hickok is charged with malpractice. He is alleged to have performed illegal operations on three women at the "Castle" at Salada Beach last August.

The San Francisco police with the aid of the sheriff's office made a raid on the castle last August and found three women there.

One of the trio found there was a mere girl of fourteen. She testified that she had paid Hickok $325 for his services.

The girl said she was taken to the "Mystery Castle" after consulting with Hickok in his San Francisco office.

She related in detail how Hickok had treated her, and how he had converted the kitchen in the "Castle" into an operating room. She related how the authorities had found her there a few days after the operation, removed her to the Red Cross hospital at San Mateo along with Miss Irene McGucken, another subject of treatment who was at the "Castle" when the raid was made.

Miss McGucken, 18, narrated her visit to Hickok at his San Francisco office, her subsequent going to the Salada Beach house and how she had been forced to give Hickok $250 before he would take charge of her case.

Mrs. Bertha Casteel, 55 Diamond street, San Francisco, was the complaining witness against Hickok. She, too, went over the ground and told a story similar to that of the girl witnesses. Mrs. Casteel said Dr. Reinhart Allen, a woman physician, had assisted Hickok in her treatment.

Dr. Wood Caker, county physician of San Mateo county, gave an account to the jury of his examination of the three women after their removal from the "Castle."

Those who testified for the prosecution yesterday were Detective Miles Jackson and Police Woman Katherine O'Connor of the San Francisco police department, who led the raid on the Castle.

The prosecution rested its case at noon yesterday.

The defense then called Doctor T. Tillman of San Francisco, an expert and a graduate of the Cooper Medical College. The line of his testimony tried to break the evidence given by Dr. Wood C. Baker during the morning session. He contradicted many statements made by the county physician. This was all the testimony the defense had to offer, except a register which will be presented this morning showing that Doctor Hickok belonged to that school of medicine known as Naturapathy. He is a naturapathic practitioner. The register will show this.

The arguments this morning will consume over an hour. The court will convene at 9 o'clock.

JANET MARY WALLACE PASSED AWAY THURSDAY

Mrs. Janet Mary Wallace, wife of Captain John Wallace, passed away at her home on Roosevelt avenue late Thursday evening after a long illness. She was a native of Japan but was a resident of Redwood City for many years. Mrs. Wallace was a gentle and charming woman, highly accomplished and dearly beloved by all who knew her. She will be sorely missed by her devoted husband and loving daughter.

Her father, the late Richard McCace, died here several years ago. He was a Civil War veteran and after that conflict went to Japan with a crew who took several battle ships bought by the Japanese government. He remained in the Orient for 42 years, coming to Redwood City to reside with his daughter after the death of his wife in Japan. He could speak the Japanese language fluently and often acted as an interpreter. The husband of the deceased, Captain Wallace has been a pilot at the San Francisco port for a number of years. His father has also been a pilot for a great many years and recently was appointed on the pilot commission by Governor Stevens. He also had a beautiful residence on Roosevelt avenue.

The funeral, which will be strictly private, will take place from the James Crowe company this morning. Mrs. Wallace is survived by her husband and daughter.

EDWARD W. FLORENCE GIVEN A PROMOTION

Edward W. Florence for the past nine and a half years district manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Light Company here has been given a substantial promotion. He has been made division manager of the Sacramento, Yolo and Solano counties consolidated. He left for his new position on Tuesday. Mr. Florence deserves the promotion. During his residence here he made many friends by his uniform courtesy and consideration of the patrons of his company. Always polite and pleasing he won the hearts of everyone. The patrons of the district regret to see him go. Not only was he obliging and courteous but he was also efficient and capable. Every complaint was given due consideration. He had a diplomatic way of settling all controversies with satisfaction to all.

There is one consolation and that is the knowledge that a young man of equal capabilities is to take his place. Walter T. Kellogg, for some years superintendent of the gas department in the local district, succeeds Mr. Florence. He is a capable and efficient young man and popular. He has a wife and four sons. The family lives in San Mateo. Up until recently they resided in Wellesley Park. The appointment of Mr. Kellogg as district manager meets with hearty approval of the patrons of the company.

Mr. Florence and his interesting family carry with them the very best wishes of the people of the peninsula for their success at the capital.

Before coming here Mr. Florence was the district manager at Fresno. He is accounted one of the ablest men in the employ of the company.

Recently this district was merged with the San Jose division and Mr. Kuster of San Jose was appointed manager of the division. Mr. Kellogg will be the district manager.

POINDEXTER READY, IF CONGRESS IS

Officials of the administration are quoted as asserting that there are already 500,000 "Reds" in the United States and that the Russian Bolsheviki are sending not only communistic propagandists but money for propaganda pusposes into this country at a rapid rate. This assertion, coupled with the plea that there is no adequate legislation now on the statute books for the supression of "Red" activities, will go far to secure early action on the Poindexter anti-sedition bill, which provides severe penalties for advocating violence for the purpose of bringing about changes in government, or for controlling the actions of government officials. The bill also makes it a crime to belong to an organization which advocates violence toward the government or its officials or yet it does not in any way interfere with the exercise of free speech or of the press, so long as violence and destruction are not advocated.

COVERT ALIEN PROPAGANDA

The disclosures that men of foreign sympathies have been writing histories for American schools may well come as a shock to citizens of this Republic who had looked upon the public school as the foundation of popular government," declares the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "But if it be true that the texts of American histories have been colored to create a prejudice in favor of other nations, it is not the only instance of covert alien propaganda in this country. Many of its professors in our colleges, particularly in the chairs of economics, bear names that mark them as of foreign extraction if not of foreign nativity, and it is notorious that in recent years the teaching of socialistic doctrines has been all too common.

"Undoubtedly, the foreign language press, controlled, of course by men of foreign origin, has been an influence tending to cause immigrants to retain their affection for the mother country and delaying their complete Americanization. This is true even though the editors are themselves thoroughly loyal to the United States, for anything that delays the learning of the English language retards the immigrant in becoming familiar with American institutions and customs. The foreign-language press has rendered good service to many new immigrants and ought not be subjected to general condemnation. The fact remains, nevertheless, that the opportunity to read a paper in the mother tongue discourages learning the language of the nation of adoption.

"Another agency for the dissemination of ideas friendly to the interest of foreign nations is the few but widely circulated newspapers and magazines in the English language edited or controlled by men of foreign ancestry or having foreign financial interests. 'Where a man's treasure is, there will his heart be also.' Much of the league of nations propaganda and much of the effort to create sentiment in favor of certain trans-oceanic nations has its origin in the desire of a few large capitalists to promote their foreign investments. To a proper extent, the effort to protect foreign investments is not deserving of criticism. American endeavors to encourage her capitalists to make foreign investments, and it is the nation's policy to render her citizens all due protection in the enforcement of their rights. But the sacrifice of American indepencence to a superstate is a price too dear to pay for the extension of American financial interests in foreign lands.

"At the recent election the voters of America gave their endorsement, by a plurality of more than 6,00,000 to that political party which stands avowedly for 'America First.' That party stands for America first in international relations, in economics, and in every other respect. There will be propaganda in the future as in the past, but the party that comes into power on March 4 is committed to the policy of conducting propaganda for 'America First.' Those who are bent upon conducting propaganda for 'foreign interests first' will do well to getin their work before March 4, for after that time their activities will be restricted."

BUILT ON THE ROCK

The expose of billions ruthlessly wasted through incompetency in the Shipping Board; other billions wasted in the management of the War Department; the admission by Labor Union leaders that they have been harboring and co-operating with the rankest kind of radicals; the recent exhibition of the willingness of high officials of the executive departments of the government to utilize their official power for the promotion of partisan interests in the election, and the disposition of American officials to surrender American interests and even American independence to foreign rivals, are all an accumulation of events which might well shake the confidence of many people in the stability of our government.

Fortunately, however, the American people are accustomed not to act hastily. Fortunately, the people are willing to suffer many grievous ills without attempt at reprisal. Fortunately, the great mass of the American people have confidence not only in themselves but in the institutions and plan of self-government established and maintained under the American Constitution.

In many another nation, the wrongs which havebe en committed would precipitate violence and vindictive punishment. In many another country, the overthrow of despots who have usurped power either inside or outside government offices, would be attended by violence and bloodshed. Not so, however, in the United States.

However burdensome the taxes resulting from waste of public funds; however high the cost of living because of underproduction largely resultant from the teachings of radical labor leaders; however great the suffering of those who offered their lives upon the field of battle; and however great the loss sustained by those who purchased government securities to finance the war, the mental equilibrium of the typical American is such that he will endure the sacrifices and still go about his daily tasks with every manifestation of an unruffled mind.

If there are those who have had doubts as to the permanenc of the American form of government, those doubts may well be abandoned in view of the present manifestation of calmness and deliberation in the face of disclosures unprecedented in the history of this or of almost any other civilized nation of modern times. The pages of history we are now turning into the past have written upon them much which gives rise to feelings of regret and remorse. We may well forget them except as they may teach us lessons for our better guidance in the future.

The course pursued by the American people at the polls in November, when, by an overwhelming majority, they withdrew the delegation of their power from the hands of a political organization and its associates which had demonstrated lack of high American ideals as well as lack of ability, and bestowed that power upon another political organization which is the outspoken advocate of promotion and protection of American nationalism and American interests, forms the foundation for utmost confidence that American government, American industry and American society will go forward to new and greater acomplishments, maintaining for all time the leadership already attained in Twentieth Century civilization.

MICHAEL MORAN PASSES AWAY AT HALFMOON BAY

Michael Moran, an old resident of the coast side passed away at his home in Irish Ridge, near Halfmoon Bay, last Saturday evening. He bled to death from a rupture of an artery before medical aid could be secured. Mr. Moran had been a resident of Irish Ridge for 44 years. At the time of his death he was a trustee of Tunis school district, a position he held for many years. Mr. Moran was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus of San Mateo and was well-known throughout the county. The funeral took place on Wednesday morning from the Catholic church at San Mateo and interment was in St. Johns cemetery, San Mateo.

Moran leaves a wife, Annie Moran and four children, Francis, Leo, Margaret and Sister Margaret Cecilia of Notre Dame of San Jose.

MICHAEL BROWN WEDS MISS CLAIRE THOMPSON

Michael Brown, until recently superintendent of the Walter Varney flying field here, was married in San Francisco last week to Miss Claire Thompson of that city.

Brown is the son of Dennis Brown of San Mateo, and was numbered among the distinguished aviators during the war, being an instructor for the army. His stunt flying attracted attention, and upon one occasion he visited his relatives here making the trip in his machine and surprising his father by "dropping" in upon his one morning for a few hours stay. Brown was admitted to the practice of law but entered the aviation department and for a time abandoned plans for carying on his profession, but now will probably continue with his pre-war arrangements.

His bride is a very attractive young woman who has a successful business in San Francisco and is numbered among those who entered the business world and attained success at an early age. She is charming in personality as well as appearance and has been the motif for a number of interesting affairs since the announcement of her engagement.

COURT FAVORS COMPROMISE OF DAMAGE SUIT

Some time ago the defendant in the damage suit of Vesta Buck against Robert Roos petitioned the court for a new trial, previously a jury having rendered a verdict in favor of plaintiff for $4234 for injuries sustained by a collision with Roos' automobile, on Monday, Judge Buck made an order in the matter. The court cut the verdict of the jury to $2117 and gave plaintiff until November 30 to accept that sum. If she did not then a new trial would be granted on defendant's motion.

The court also cut the damages awarded Ruth Krug, a companion of Vesta Buck and who was in the latter's machine at the time of the accident from $1050 to $750. She was given until November 30 to accept the sum.

The defendants have accepted the offer of the court in both cases. The money was paid to defendants yesterday.

MERCANTILE STORE IN SAN GREGORIO BROKEN NITO

The general mercantile store of the Barker-Packard Mercantile company, located at San Gregorio, was broken into Wednesday morning between 5 and 6 o'clock and robbed of merchandise valued at between $500 and $600 according to the information furnished to the sheriff's office Wednesday morning.

The robbers gained access to the store by breaking the glass in the store window, and made away with their booty in a large automobile, the tracks showing that the machine came from the south and left for the north after the robbery. A light was seen in the store shortly after 5 o'clock that morning, which quickly disappeared, showing that the robbery took place about that time.

Among the articles taken were: one Stevens' 12-gauge single barrel shotgun; one 28-calibre Iver-Johnson revolver; three gold wrist watches, one with ivory cover; three Gillett safety razors; one ivory manicure set; eight nacy silk shirtwaists, pink, blue and white; two girls' sweaters; one wool shirt; 500 Optimo and anila cigars; 1200 Camel, Omar, Old Mill, Chesterfield and Lucky Strike cigarettes, and one box of Climas chewing tobacco.

The sheriff's office is bending every effort to apprehend the men responsible for the robbery, and with the information available expect to have a line on them before night. The tracks of the automobile were left in the soft ground, showing that it was equipped with vacuum cup tires.

Mrs. Elyse Schultz Hopkins on Tuesday filed in the superior court of San Francisco a suit for divorce from her husband, Samuel W. Hopkins, only son of E. W. Hopkins, the multimillionaire. Mrs. Hopkins states in the complaint filed by her attorney, Robert Mack Light that after their marriage in June, 1912, Hopkins was constantly under the influence of intoxicating liquor, and while under such influence was brutal, striking and beating her without cause and calling her names. Repeatedly during the time she lived with him the papers set forth, Mrs. Hopkins protested at these acts and urged him to reform, which he promised to do, but broke his promise as often as made. Mrs. Hopkins was Elyse Schultz, daughter of Mrs. George W. Schultz, a sister of Mrs. Harold W. Law and a cousin of Miss Hattie Schultz. The couple have one child, Samuel, Jr. Yesterday Judge Graham granted Mrs. Hopkins a divorce. By a property settlement Mrs. Hopkins receives $165.000. AN INTERESTING, INSTRUCTIVE EXHIBITION

We hope that this illustration will serve to make a few thousand people throughout California reflect seriously on the vital subject of saving for the future.

It is a sad commentary on American prudence and thrift that so many men and women are "broke" at fifty.

If, out of the thousands of incomes in this state, ranging from $150 to $200 a month, $20 a month were placed in a Bank of Italy four per cent interest-bearing account, the total in twenty years (figuring compound interest) would amount to $7309.63. This sum invested in a good seven per cent security would yield an income of $511.67 per year
